GREAT DISCOVERY OF COAL IN

If we may believe goologists, mining eninsers and the energetic and observant Daputy Communicationer, Captain Lucie Smith, a discovery has been made near the station of Chands in the Central Provinces, of hardly less importance than that made years ago at Raneegunge. If even half the cautions estimate of Mr. Mark Fryar, the Government mining geologist, may be received and he is quite as likely to have under estimated as to have over estimated the deposit—the Great Indian Peninsul Railway Company may now obtain as fine a supply of coal at the same distance from its Nacpore terminus, as Rancegunge is from the Calcutta main line.

Chanda lies on the river Wurdah some 85 miles south of Nagpore and 180 north of Hyderabad. The importance of the discovery of coal is enormously increased by the fact, that the country both to the north and south of Chands is one of the finest cotton districts in India. It was to open them up that so much money has been expended on the navigation of the Godavery, of which the Wurdah is the principal affluent. To the north of Chandah is Hingunghat, the cotton of which is so celebrated that the seed is being used in not favour such exotic varieties as New Or- or speak unkindly of his wife. The first current feeling, sets upon the notions and practices which keep so valuable a fabric in good order and repair. In judging all men and particularly men of such eminence as those with whom Miss Martineau has dealt, the morality of their general influence, alike through personal example and work actually done and left behind them and apart from them, is all important to a favourable or tolerant opinion. If, when the balance comes to be struck, it should not appear that their conduct has aprung from conscious and steady preference of what is morally right over what is morally wrong -nay, more than this, a preference, not only of right, but of the highest kind of right which the man's intelligence, fairly exerted, could be expected to receive and appreciate—then the verdict must unquestionably be condemnatory on the main issue. Its morality is emphatically the salt. of character.

LORD BYRON'S LAST DAYS. In parting with Lord Byron, it is some relief to cast a glimpse of light on a very dark picture. Though he continued to breathe bitter words against Lady Noel down to the time of her death, yet for three years before his own death he seems to have those inland districts whose climate does ceased (a single instance excepted) to write leans and Egyptian. EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS

(From the !! Straits Times," July 27, 1868.) Some time ago we had occasion to remark upon the progress that Literature as repre-sented by the Press had made and was making in the East, and our attention has again been called to the aubject by the receipt of a Hongkong publication which deserves some notice and which we have much pleasure in introducing to the knowledge of our readers. We allude to Notes on behalf of the Chinese Government; Li- and Queries on thing and Japan, published monthly by Mr Saint, the proprietor of the China Mail newspaper. This publication is well printed on good paper, and in size and shape is very like its well-known namea printed copy of the General Regulations sake or prototype at home, and is equally a mine containing very curious and useful information regarding the language, literature, history, madners and customs of the Chinese and in a less degree of the Japanese It says a good deal for the extent and stability of the footing of Europeans in China, that such a publication as this should be established and conducted with apparently auccessful vigour The publication is altogether a very interesting one, and wishing it every success. we commend it to the attention and support of our readers. (From the "Friend of India," June 4, 1868.) We acknowledge with thanks the receipt of the numbers for the current year of Notes and Queries," a most deserving Anglo-Chinese monthly, edited by Mr N. B. Dennys, whose "Treaty Ports of China and Japan" are so well known. From the names attached to the "Notes" we can see that the contributors include some of the best Chinese scholars in the East. Its inof European ladies, as it is never failing in They must pay due respect to the wishes terest is not confined to China, and it will be of valuable assistance to all scholars, who have directed their attention towards the subject of Buddhism and its literature, and generally to all who are interested in oriental antiquities. It deserves to be better known in India. (From the "London Examiner," May 16, 1868.)

This really useful volume ["Treaty Ports of China and Japan "] is intended as a guide for travellers and residents in China and Japan, and as a book of reference for mercantile men generally. It contains an account, historical and political, of all the open ports of these countries, together with Peking, Yedo, Hongkong, and Macao. It has been carefully compiled and edited by Mr N. B. Dennys; and the elaborate maps and plans, with which the work abounds. We have thus given in outline some of the remainder of the treaty ports, we can only enumerate. The pages describing Peking, the capital, are so interesting, and contain so much that is new to Enropean L-Pilot Boats shall be registered with readers respecting its history, public buil-THE Clarette is a General Weekly Newspa- where each boat will be given a certificate would fain transfer them to our columns. per, containing Officially Revised Reports and number.
